

SOCIETY

DRESS REHEARSAL OF THE JUNE FANTASY

The dress rehearsal for the June Fantasy was held last evening and it was very pleasing to those promoting this social and benevolent event. The living pictures are sure to score a splendid success. It has been a number of years since living pictures have been shown here, and while they have had great vogue on the mainland recently, Honolulu has not seen any. Mrs. Templeton Crocker and Mrs. Frederick Kohl of San Francisco are kind enough to pose and both make very lovely pictures. Mrs. Harold Castle is a picture of girlish beauty and sweetness. Mrs. Edward Carpenter and Mrs. Harold Giffard both pose with great dignity.

Miss Edith Williams, who represents Joan of Arc, is true to life. Her glistening armor and his staff make this a very realistic picture.

Mrs. E. White Sutton makes a dainty picture, while Miss Ramona Morgan is Queen Louise in the life. Mrs. Alexander G. Hawes is a perfect picture of Sargent's Carmencita.

The ballet is as good as one could see on any mainland stage. The Dance of Life and that of Death are especially fine. Mrs. Frederick Kohl has a wonderful voice and sings it with perfect ease and grace. Prof. J. S. Wannell's excellent voice proves what a master he is. The "steel" stringed instrument number is very pleasing and the music of the orchestra under the direction of Prof. Ideler, who needs no introduction, is delightful. The house has been sold out for the first night, tomorrow evening, and anyone who plans to go to the other performances should phone for reservations at the Territorial Messenger Service.

CHAMPION COURT TENNIS PLAYER WILL SOON BE HERE

SAN FRANCISCO.—Mr. and Mrs. Jay Gould of New York will sail this month for Honolulu and en route they will stop for several days in this city. Mrs. Gould, who was Miss Annie Graham, daughter of Mrs. Hubert Vos, has many friends and relatives in Honolulu, who will entertain for the young couple.

Jay Gould is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Gould, and is the champion court tennis player of the world. He gained the title when he was only 20 years old by defeating the English professional champion, who had held the honor for years.

Mr. and Mrs. Gould would have gone to the Hawaiian Islands in the early spring, but they delayed their departure from New York until after the wedding of Mrs. Gould's brother, Harvey Graham, and Miss Frances Henry, which took place last week. Jay Gould was one of the ushers at the wedding. —San Francisco Chronicle, May 21.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. S. Lindsey of Waimea, Hawaii, announce the engagement of their son, W. M. S. Lindsey, Jr., to Miss Christabel K. Cockett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Cockett of Lahaina, Maui.

Both young people are amongst the most popular members of the community and the announcement will be received with much pleasure by their friends.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Williams announce the engagement of their daughter, Electa, to Mr. George Byron Girdler. The engagement announcement will be received with much interest here.

Everyone who had the opportunity left town Saturday and did not come home until Tuesday evening. The holiday was a breathing spell for those wishing to be away from town for a week-end, and it is safe to say that every beach house was opened.

It is really delightful to have the W. G. Irwin mansion at Waikiki open. During the Irwin's permanent occupancy it was the scene of many brilliant affairs.

Mrs. Harry D. Spellman, a bride of yesterday. As Miss Gladys L. Smith she arrived from the coast on the steamer China yesterday and was married last evening. Her home has been in Los Angeles. Mr. Spellman is a comparatively recent arrival here. He is with Libby, McNeill & Libby.

Miss Marion Zeile of San Francisco, who is here as the house-guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dillingham, is being showered with favors from her many friends here.

Mrs. Eugene Murphy, who is here as the guest of Mrs. Templeton Crocker, is a member of one of the oldest California families.

Miss Hester Pratt was a home-coming passenger on the Lurline. Miss Pratt has been away at college and is home for her vacation.

Mr. Dunbar Wright, who has been in Honolulu for the past two months, continued his trip to the Orient on the China.

Dr. and Mrs. F. E. Trotter, who were lured to the volcano, are back, loud in their praise of the wonders they saw.

Mrs. J. H. Raymond, after a two months' trip on the mainland, came home on the Lurline.

Miss Anna Sorenson was a home-coming passenger on the Lurline on Tuesday.

FT. SHAFTER SOCIETY

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence] FORT SHAFTER, May 31.—The informal hop given last Friday evening at the Officers' Club in honor of Capt. and Mrs. Paul B. Malone was a very jolly little affair and in addition to quite a large number from the post there were a number who motored out from town and others.

Lieut. and Mrs. John B. Richardson have issued invitations to a supper party on Friday evening complimentary Capt. and Mrs. Paul B. Malone, who leave on the next transport for the mainland.

Lieut. and Mrs. Paul D. Reinicke, who have been in camp near Haleiwa for the past month, were visitors on the post for a few days last week while Lieut. Reinicke was taking his test ride.

Mrs. Claire R. Bennett is a patient in the Department hospital, where she underwent a slight operation last Monday.

Miss Elizabeth Rosenbaum was the weekend guest of Capt. and Mrs. George H. Jamerson.

Lieut. and Mrs. F. A. Barker spent the weekend camping on the other side of the island, and returned to the post on Monday after a most enjoyable trip.

Mrs. Charles S. Lincoln was the house-guest of Maj. and Mrs. William R. Dashiell while Col. Lincoln was absent on an inspection tour of Maui.

Capt. and Mrs. James E. Dell had Mrs. Charles S. Lincoln as their dinner guest last Saturday evening.

COAST SOCIAL NOTES

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.—Much of the society of San Francisco's smart set is being transferred to Honolulu with the departure on Wednesday of a group of society's leaders. Consequently there will be dinners and dances and other entertainments galore for the next few weeks in the island city, where all the travelers have hosts of friends, and where at least three of the group, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Templeton Crocker and Mrs. Harold Dillingham, have homes of their own.

Mr. and Mrs. Crocker are going to reopen the handsome place owned by Mrs. Crocker's mother, Mrs. William G. Irwin, and where Mrs. Crocker has been almost every summer since her childhood. The place has every facility for the best kind of a good time and it is an envied person indeed who has the good fortune of an invitation to visit there. Mr. and Mrs. Crocker exercise in their island home the same delightful hospitality for which they are noted here, the affairs at which they entertain, whether formal or informal, being invariably enjoyable and carried out perfectly in every detail. Their arrival is always the reason for a long series of pleasurable entertainments, their time being taken up with dinners, dances, lunches and teas, besides a more than the usual array of outdoor amusements.

There will be quite a colony of San Franciscans in the islands with the arrival of the Watsonia. Mr. and Mrs. Crocker are taking Mrs. C. Frederick Kohl and Mrs. Eugene Murphy down as their guests. Mrs. Harold Dillingham, who has been visiting in San Francisco for the last month, sailed on the same steamer taking Miss Marion Zeile to be her house-guest for several weeks. Mr. and Mrs. William Morrow, Mrs. Charles W. Slack and Miss Edith Slack also sailed on the Watsonia, planning to be away for some weeks. Mrs. Henry Foster Dutton is already in Honolulu, where she has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Harry Macfarlane, for the last few weeks. Mrs. Macfarlane, despite the fact that she has lived in Honolulu since her marriage, is still a Californian, according to California's views.

With such an array of San Franciscans congregated in Honolulu there will be much of entertainment, and the group who on sailing said they were taking the trip to secure a rest will doubtless find it necessary to return to California to fulfill that purpose.

There was much regret in San Francisco's smart circles over the departure of Mrs. Dillingham. As Miss Margaret Hyde-Smith, she was one of the most popular girls of the younger set, and her friends have never quite become resigned to having her make her home away from here. She usually manages to pass a month or more of every year in California, where she has many relatives and friends. Most of her visit this year was at the home of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin Wood, in San Mateo, and she also made an extended stay with her aunt, Mrs. Alexander Garceau, on Pacific avenue.

Needless to say, Mrs. Dillingham was the incentive for many social courtesies while here. One of the largest affairs given in her honor was the theater party at which Miss Marion Zeile was hostess Monday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Talbot Walker made her the honored guest at a charming dinner-dance at the Menlo Country Club a week ago yesterday, and on the same day Mrs. Mountford S. Wilson entertained her at luncheon. Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin Wood gave a dinner in compliment to her a few days before her departure, and she was also the guest of honor at the dinner over which Mr. and Mrs. Christian de Guzman presided last Sunday evening in San Mateo. Mrs. Dillingham herself was hostess at a handsomely appointed luncheon the Friday before she sailed, when a dozen of her close friends enjoyed her hospitality. —San Francisco Chronicle.

Mrs. Henry Conger Pratt has arrived in Washington from her home in El Paso, Texas, and is the house-guest of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ord Preston. —San Francisco Argonaut.

Bishop William Ford Nichols and Mrs. Nichols are visiting in San Rafael at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mills. —San Francisco Argonaut.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Murphy have closed their home on Van Ness avenue and are established in their Burlingame home for the summer. —San Francisco Argonaut.

Mr. William Powers Bourn will go
